Being such an important document in the field, all the world need to learn it, and it makes sense that the majority of mental health professionals buy a copy. What will make this book? 200 Damlares! OK OK. $ 200 is a lot, but I understand. It is an important book, nobody has had to buy a new one since 1998 (ISH) when the DSM-4TR came out, and the APA needs to recover its 15 years of inefficiencies in the publication of this thing. Good. You know what, secondly, I will let the students buy the version of the textbook, I will collect this version of Little, Tiny, Bitty, Pocket-Sdized Desktop Reference Cliff Notes here ... Do you joke? Look at the thing! This book will stay where it belongs, on the shelf of Barnes and noble. I will obtain the information I need outside the Interweb and buy a copy of the manual for $ 20 at the end of the next semester when each grade is hocking your copy on Amazon. Thank you forever to anger everyone, American Psychiatric Association. BTW, it seems that the NIH (National Health Institutes), completely dejected with the political nonsense that made their way to the content of the DSM 5, is working on their own, competing, guide. Our taxes pay for the NIH, so there is a good opportunity if / when that document is available, it will be a free download. Premenstrual Dyphic Disorder: DSM 5 Embarración?
